The motor oil in your Nissan Sentra provides cooling lubrication for the moving parts of the engine. Each of the moving parts inside of the engine generates significant friction and heat, and without sufficient motor oil to lubricate and cool them, there is a risk for engine damage. Ensuring that you stick to a regular oil change schedule on your Sentra will help ensure that the engine has a consistent supply of fresh oil.

As the oil moves through the engine it accumulates contaminants and dirt from the crankcase. The oil filter on your Nissan Sentra filters out the contaminants before the oil is recirculated throughout the engine to prevent damage to internal engine components. The oil filter on your Sentra should be replaced with each routine oil change.
